

Linked In

Connecting with 20 people was both challenging and rewarding:

- Challenge: My LinkedIn connections were few, so my posts didn't get much attention. I also found it tricky to find the right people to connect with at first.
- Success: I connected with some professionals in my field and with people from BroCamp, which was a good start.

Thoughts on LinkedIn

LinkedIn is a great tool for meeting people in your industry and learning from them. It helps you stay updated and find new opportunities.

Lessons Learned

1. Networking Matters: Having more connections is important. The more people you know, the better your chances of getting noticed.
2. Stay Active: Just connecting isn't enough. You need to post and interact with others to make the most of LinkedIn.

Recommendations for Future Students

1. Connect with Experts: Try to connect with people who are experienced and can help you in your career.
2. Be Active: Post regularly and engage with your connections to get better results.
3. Use Your Network: Ask for advice, join groups, and participate in conversations to make the most of your connections.

In the future, I plan to connect with more experts and work on building a stronger network on LinkedIn.
